Press Release Summary: Niche marketing can be a profitable field to work in, but many people find it hard to get started. This new online niche marketing website shows you how.

Press Release Body: Fort Wayne, IN, December 2008 – Heather Hyvarinen is proud to broadcast the launch of her new niche markets website at MyWorkAtHomeBlog.net which answers any and all questions aspiring internet marketers have about how to profit with niche marketing.

“With the pressures of the economy, a work at home phenomenon is taking place around the world right now,” stated Heather, “however, the huge amount of demand for information about how to profitably work at home has led to a lot of bad information and flat out scams that have actually caused many people who are looking to make money online to become discouraged, and in some cases people they are even being ripped off by buying products that make great promises, but just don’t deliver. That’s why I felt it was important to help men and women made informed decisions when it comes to learning about niche markets and how they can legitimately learn to make money online."

"There are many legitimate ways to make money online" said Heather, "I know because I've been making money online full time for about 6 months now, and have been involved in niche marketing since October 2007."

According to the US Census Bureau Internet Sales have increased from 600 million to 3.6 billion dollars in the last eight years, and Internet Sales have seen an increase of 5.6% in the third quarter of 2008. In fact, there has never been a down quarter once for internet sales.

Many people have quietly prospered over the last decade and made their livings on the internet. This is because as computers and broadband access become less expensive, more and more people have become comfortable becoming "internet consumers". With more money being spent online every day, the opportunity for individuals to enter and profit from niche markets grows.

"Thank you so much for helping me find a legitimate way to make money online, your recommendations, information, and tips have helped me make my first dollars online, and I am looking forward to earning more." says, Katie B.

Unfortunately people are often not practicing due diligence when it comes to buying Make Money Online opportunities which has resulted in them buying virtually useless scam products, particularly online.

"What people who want to earn money online may not know is that much of the information available about how to make money online is simply too advanced for a beginner." explains Heather. "To make matters worse, it is really easy to get information overload, and never get started at all, which is unfortunate, because with the proper information and work ethic, anyone can leverage niche markets to make money online."

The extensive range of topics discussed at Heather's Niche Marketing website include:

What exactly niche markets are, why you can and should profit from niche markets, what are the advantages of niche marketing, revealing statistics of internet growth as published by the US Census Bureau and what it reveals about how you can profit from the internet, 3 methods to help you find a niche market that is profitable, how to get a comprehensive free niche market guide that will make finding niche markets easier than you ever imagined, plus a review of the products that helped Heather become profitable online.

Heather does all she can to ensure that visitors to her Niche Marketing website leave very well informed about Niche Markets and how they can profit from them as quickly as possible and are also confident that they are on the right path to becoming profitable themselves.

The products that Heather recommends include the three most important resources for building a profitable niche marketing business. She uses all of these products herself to help her create profitable niches. One of them is even free.
