Philadelphia PA March 26th. The days of traveling to busy shops for buying prom dresses, formalwear and eveningwear are numbered. Promgirl.net, an online formal wear store, has introduced a new technology shopping that completes the online shopping experience for eveningwear. With the new video model system, customers can choose a model that fits their shape and size closely, then see what the dresses look like when that model wears them. This innovative new feature allows customers to get a realistic idea of what the prom dresses 2010 would look like if they tried them themselves. on Promgirl.net has several of the most popular designers, including Terani pageant dresses, Clarisse dresses, Mori Lee gowns, Tony Bowls prom dresses, and Jovani cocktail and formal dresses. You can browse the extensive selection of high quality designer gowns and cocktail dresses, and when you find one you like you can choose the right model and virtually try the dress on. If there are elements that you wouldn't like about the dress once you try it on, they will show up clearly when the model tries it on. Promgirl's new video dressing room takes the risk out of purchasing expensive clothing online. There are models available in nearly every shape and size, so no customer will feel left out of the experience. You can see for instance style Clarisse prom dress 9031 in 3 different sizes Small, Medium and Large.
