WASHINGTON, D.C. and ATLANTA, Ga – May 12, 2010, uVuMobile™, Inc. (UVUM.PK), a mobility solutions and content aggregator, today announced that they have partnered with the Pentagon Channel to deliver live programming to video enabled mobile phones and military personnel around the world.

The uVuMobile VXStream platform, which allows content providers like The Pentagon Channel to offer comprehensive suites of rich media to consumers, is providing soldiers on the move, and even loved ones at home, a new way of keeping up-to-date on the news and programming that affect their daily lives.

Members of the military community, including the Pentagon Channel's audience of more than 2.6 million members of the U.S. armed forces, will be able to access live broadcasts of military news and information through their cell phones, anytime of day and in any worldwide location with a cellular connection. Thanks to the uVuMobile partnership, news updates and programming from the channel can be viewed at home and overseas on most video enabled feature phones – including Blackberries, Palms, Google's Nexus One, and Windows Smartphones.

Utilizing the growing popularity of live video streaming to cell phones, this partnership furthers the mission of The Pentagon Channel. The channel, which was designed by the Department of Defense to enhance timely communications for members of the armed forces, provides 24-hour information and media to viewers, which include 1.4 million active duty service members, 1.2 million members of the National Guard and Reserves, and the 650,000 employees of the Department of Defense.

"We are excited to be working with The Pentagon Channel to deliver its programming to mobile phones, worldwide and to play a role in ensuring our troops are informed with the latest military news on a real-time basis," said Richard Seifert, President and CEO, uVuMobile. "Our VXStream platform will ensure a high quality and robust experience to the millions of military and civilian personnel who view this valuable resource."

Subscribers to the video streaming service will have access to the entire slate of The Pentagon

Channel programming including: Department of Defense news briefings, Daily News Updates, Fit for Duty, The American Veteran, The Grill Sergeants, Pacific Report, interviews with top Defense officials and short stories about the work of our military.

Users can access the new service by going to http://www.uvumobile.com/tpc on their mobile phone.

"We are delighted to add this feature to our arsenal of distribution options," said Brian Natwick, General Manager of the Pentagon Channel. "In order to serve our viewers, they must first be able to get our content. This 'TV everywhere' opportunity is just another way we can give our service members what they need."
