Although we seldom hear anyone request how to 'cancel my Blair Rewards', the truth is that the process is as easy as 1, 2, and 3.

That's important to know about this and any program that you join. The truth is that we sometimes join memberships and later find that the program was not what we really needed. Other times, we use the offers we are interested in and then we are ready to quit the program. Either way, it is always wise to insure that any program or membership you join has an easy exit plan. In other words, you should be able to cancel whenever you choose and you shouldn't have to jump through hoops to do it. A Blair Rewards membership is extremely safe in that regard.

Their cancellation is as easy as their sign up process. The reality is that the Blair Rewards programs have been designed to be user-friendly. There are no confusing instructions that leave you wondering what you just read. Instead, everything is simple, straightforward, and to the point. Although most people join the Blair Rewards program and never look back, there could be reasons that you may decide to leave the program. For example, a colleague joined the program because he had just purchased a new puppy. His primary goal was to get everything he needed for his puppy at substantial savings. Needless to say, he did that and also took advantage of other benefits offered through his membership. But after about seven months he said he had used all the offers he was interested in. His next step was to redeem his rewards and then cancel his membership. It's very important that members use their rewards before they cancel. The point is that the rewards were earned through your purchasing efforts. It makes no sense to waste them. Instead, redeem your rewards, get something wonderful, and then cancel.

When you are absolutely sure it is time to leave the program you can easily follow the online instructions.
